Text från bokens baksida:

Bo Nordh was one of the most talented and skilful pipemakers of our time. According to the marketplace he was even the most respected pipemaker of all time. His reputation steadily grew and was at its high point, when he suddenly died in 2006. Most of his pipes are now found among prominent collectors in Japan, U.S.A., Germany and several other countries.

Jan Andersson is the Hon. Secretary of the Pipe Club of Sweden and publisher of the magazine Rökringar (Smoke Rings). His articles about Scandinavian pipemakers have been published in several countries. Jan was a good friend of Bo Nordh's for more than 25 years.

This is a book about a man and his work, a man who got a world-wide reputation for his art. It is illustrated with 125 pictures showing more than 100 pipes – pipes that made the name Bo Nordh well-known and respected all over the world.
